DESPITE MAGNIFICENT COME-BACK IN THIRD PERIOD, MCGILL HOCKEY TEAM LOSES MATCH TO VARSITY SEXTETTE

Blue and White Go Up Another Notch in Race For Intercollegiate Championship by Giving McGill the Small End of a 9-3 Score—Toronto Display Wonderful Skating, Stickhandling and Team-Work—Langtry a Marvellous Goaler—Largeness of Score Due to McGill's Weakness in the Nets—Red and White Had Generous Share of the Play, Giving Toronto Goalie Many More Shots Than Timmins Received—McGill Began to Find Toronto Net in Last Period When They Learned to Bore in on the Goal-tend Instead of Shooting From Outside the Defence.

Varsity put a crimp in McGill's intercollegiate hockey aspirations when they handed them the wrong end of a 9-3 score in the first local fixture of the season, Saturday night.

The defeat was a decisive one, but does not altogether indicate the relative strengths of the two teams. It rather represents the abilities of the respective goal-tenders. Varsity has a faster team than McGill, and displayed better team work than the Red and White sextette, but with any sort of support in the McGill nets, the score would have looked different. Timmins, who was playing his first intercollegiate game, showed obvious signs of nervousness. McGill had the edge over Varsity in puck carrying, but Langtry's work in goals was infallible.

Play was as fast as the poor sheet of ice could allow. Before the game started, even, there were pools of water on the ice, and after a few minutes of play the surface became so cut up that the players found difficulty in keeping their feet. It was extremely difficult to carry the rubber, and over-skating it was common throughout the whole game. The stickiness of the ice made the contestants somewhat irritable, and play was not too clean.

In the second period, the continued slashing of Westman culminated in fistic retaliation by Flanagan. Langtry came out of his goal to take part in the encounter, and then several of the McGill players joined in the mix-up. A few of the officials rushed on the ice, however, and soon put a stop to the scuffle.

The Toronto team gave a wonderful exhibition of fast skating in spite of the ice, and at times rushed the McGill team off its feet. Team work on the McGill forward line at times was obviously lacking, and only in the final period did they appear to get started at their old form. The three goals scored by the Red and White were all pretty exhibitions of combination and speed, and showed just what the McGill forward line is capable of. Shaughnessy started Dineen on the scrimmage round the Toronto goal. Flanagan caused some amusement when he caught his skate in the nets and could not extricate himself for some time. The McGill defence was putting up a strong front at this stage and was saving Timmins from plenty of shots. Behan caused some excitement when he took the puck down alone and gave Langtry a wicked shot. The Toronto goalie, however, blocked the shot. "Ted" came down once more shortly afterwards, and a chance to score was dissipated when his pass in front of the net was not received.

"Boo" Anderson's checking was pretty to watch, and he broke up many a promising attack with his tricky poke. The pace slowed up considerably as the ice continued to become more cut up. Behan and a Toronto forward were banished when they took a swing at each other, and Cully followed his team-mate a minute later for a cross-check.

Gallery substituted for Anderson, and with two men on the penalty-bench, the McGill team did not look too strong. Dineen's good work on the defence staved off the continued attacks of the Varsity forwards, and with only four McGill players on the ice Varsity failed to score.

Behan heralded his return to the ice with a good piece of stick-handling, and Dineen threw away a chance to score when he took the pass and shot wide.

Sullivan gave his team another goal when he slipped an easy shot in from outside the defence. Anderson and Flanagan came on, and Langtry had a rain of shots to stop from all angles. McGill attempted to score with long shots, but Langtry was impassable, and the period ended with the score at 2-0.

Second Period.

The ice was in terrible condition for the opening of the second period and play became ragged. Flanagan missed the goal altogether after a good piece of work, shortly after the start. After a minute and a half of play, Sullivan rushed the McGill net and, taking Timmins off his feet, poked in the third goal of the evening.

McGill came back strong, and held the play around the Varsity net. Behan overskated the puck a few times and lost a good chance to score when the rubber failed to lift off the ice. Langtry turned aside all shots and maintained remarkable coolness until the puck was carried to the McGill end. Wright added another goal to the Varsity lead when he batted in the rebound from his own shot.

McGill was showing entire lack of team work at this stage, and moreover, Varsity was checking hard and (Continued on Page 3.)

TICKETS FOR QUEEN'S GAMES

Obtainable From the Union Hall Porter This A.M. at 9.30.

Tickets for both the Basketball and Hockey games with Queen's next Saturday, February 12th will be placed on sale with the hall porter at the Union this morning at 9.30, at the same prices which prevailed for last week. It is expected that these tickets will be rapidly sold out, as those who witnessed the defeats of last week will certainly want to be on hand to help our teams beat Queen's, and those who did not attend the Toronto games will hear so much about them that they will not want to miss these fixtures. Our basketball team received a sad setback last Saturday. This was not due to their being an inferior team, for in the brief moments in which they came to, as it were, they showed marked superiority over the Varsity quintette. But for some reason the team got nervous, with the result that they were badly beaten. This will not occur again, and they feel sure that they will be able to register a win when they play Varsity in their own citadel. In the meantime, they have to beat Queen's first. It is hoped that the students will give the team the support they accorded them last week, and will not lose confidence in them because of one poor showing. As for the hockey game, nothing really has to be said about it. Suffice it to say that anyone who goes to the game will be sure to witness a struggle

FURTHER DETAILS OF FRENCH PLAY

Tickets To Be Ready For Distribution Soon.

The French Play announced in these columns a week ago, and which is to be given in the Convocation Hall of the Royal Victoria College on Saturday, February the 19th, appears to be progressing favorably to all intents and purposes.

A "Daily" representative, who interviewed the chairman of the Play committee over the week-end, was informed that the invitation tickets now in the hands of the printers would be ready for distribution to student-applicants by the middle of this week. It might be well to mention here that no admission will be charged, as the play is being given solely for the purpose of stimulating an interest in things dramatic at McGill.

Rehearsals have been under way for some three weeks now, and the actors have now reached that stage of proficiency when they may assemble with furtive secrecy in the lobby of the Union in order to proceed with their rehearsals at the R.V.C., protected by the confidence inspired by sheer numbers. It was gathered that the feeling of relief was general whenever the convoy succeeded in reaching the shelter of the Convocation Hall, for the inmates look with natural suspicion upon the intrusion of a wild-eyed band of Thespians.

Further details will be made public as soon as the invitation tickets are on hand.

THE "PINK-TEA" MOVEMENT

Modern life, and especially modern university life, is in danger of becoming too complex. Perhaps it is only a phase in the social history of a decidedly materialistic age, but of its effects there can be no doubt. The apotheosis of this complexity is reached in what we shall dub the "Pink-Tea" movement.

How comes it that with scarcely an exception every club or organization of this University is compelled to make an obvious and exaggerated appeal to the stomach if it would secure anything approaching adequate support? With this generality there is no intention to censure enterprises of a purely social character such as skating parties and snowshoe tramps, along with certain of the so-called "sectional" clubs. Their aim is an avowed and a legitimate one, which places them in a class by themselves. But this is far from being the case with a host of departmental clubs, who claim to have a more serious aim in view. If one were to pick out at random any one of their advance notices appearing from time to time in these pages one cannot fail to observe that the question of the refreshments is given more prominence than the subjects under discussion at the meeting of the club in question. The executives though they be fully aware of the tragedy of the situation are powerless, for they are bound hand and foot and rendered impotent by the noxious spirit of the "Pink-Tea" movement.

Only recently the executive of the Literary and Debating Society attempted to arouse interest in the question of the reorganization of a Mock Parliament. About ten enthusiasts attended the preliminary meeting. Had the executive so far forgotten the dignity of such an institution as the "Lit", and had they made it known that five o'clock tea would be served to the assemblage, matters would in all probability have been vastly different, and instead of ten a hundred would have been present. But the executive retained their self-respect, and their faith in undergraduate support was rewarded by this deplorable fiasco.

Football and Hockey flourish without this artificial buttressing. Last Saturday the McGill Hockey Team battled their way through a losing game with dogged persistence merely for the love of the game itself. The executive of the Athletic Association did not feel called upon to distribute ice-cream, cake and coffee to the rooters during the intermissions; yet this oversight seemed in no way to diminish their ardour. If all branches of athletics can be successfully conducted at McGill without unnecessary frills why cannot the same be done with the other branches of undergraduate activity?

It is an insidious affair, this "Pink-Tea" movement, and one which seems to have sunk its roots deep into the popular mind. It must be eradicated if there is to be efficiency and progress rather than artificiality and dilettantism. We may take courage from the fact that it is probably only a passing phase of modern life like Freudism and free-verse; more deleterious to the general good than these, it is true, but just as liable to go the way of all things ephemeral.

THE WEEK-END OF SPORT

The Varsity Basketball and Hockey teams have returned to the Queen City with two more feathers in their cap. In both cases their victories were well-earned ones, gained by virtue of superior ability and team-work of a markedly high order. Especially in the Basketball game the combination of the McGill team was not all that might be desired.

No possible advantage could be gained in attempting to minimize the seriousness of the situation. McGill has been defeated on her own ground in both branches of winter-time intercollegiate sport, and this, it must be granted, is a severe handicap. Of course as far as McGill is concerned, the season has in reality only just commenced, and the end of the struggle is still a thing of the distant future. But most determined efforts will have to be made if McGill is not to allow her Ontario rivals to bear away two more intercollegiate championships. There is no cause for complaint either with the individual players or with the support afforded by the undergraduate body. It is simply a matter of putting the shoulder to the wheel while there is yet time. Toronto has shown that they possess two splendid teams. There is no reason why McGill should not equal them.

DR. SCHOFIELD LECTURED AT STRATH. HALL

Will Speak on Tuesday at 5 p.m.

GOOD SPEAKER.

Narrated Upon Current Affairs in Korea and Japan.

Last evening Dr. F. W. Schofield, of the Union Medical College, Korea, gave a most interesting and enlightening lecture at Strathcona Hall. Dr. Schofield, previous to his missionary work under the Presbyterian Foreign Mission's Board, was a student at Varsity and other Ontario colleges. For some time he has been doing excellent work in this newly annexed territory of Japan, which is populated by people which are at present extremely downtrodden.

The speaker in starting his glowing talk outlined the condition of Korea to-day and its past history, especially enlarging upon the causes which have brought about the existing corruptions in the government of that country by its recent subduers, the "Japs."

To give a detailed account of the doctor's address, which he gave after preaching at Knox-Crescent Church earlier in the evening, would indeed be impossible. From the commencement it was pregnant with his clear metaphors and with humor, which is usually an absent quality with missionaries. He dwelt upon the late revolutions in Korea to-day and the means taken by the Japanese Government to suppress them. He, in his own unique manner, then proceeded to detail the method of the Japanese to "assimilate" the Koreans to their new ruler and "would-be countrymen."

It was certainly with regret that the students present found that their welcome visitor had ended his address after a "short half hour," but were equally glad to learn that on Tuesday afternoon next, February 8th, at 5 o'clock, Dr. Schofield will again narrate to McGill students his experiences in the East. This meeting will be held in Strathcona Hall and open to all interested.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,

I noticed something while attending the basketball game last Saturday that I thought was absolutely foreign to McGill, namely a lack of courtesy and sportsmanlike behaviour to our visitors on the part of some individuals attending that game.

The incident that I refer to occurred in the second half of the match when one of the Varsity players was unfortunately injured. At that time I heard some individuals calling out "to cut out stalling" and "to stop wasting time," etc., etc. I have no idea who the individuals were but it certainly showed rotten spirit and something that I thought did not exist at McGill. I always prided myself that McGill treated her visiting adversaries, in whatever sport it might be, with the utmost courtesy and if they were fortunate enough to win, to be the first to congratulate them. I have often heard other crowds criticized by McGill men for that very thing that occurred last Saturday.

I would say in closing to those men responsible, treat our visiting teams here as we would wish to be treated when we are away from home. Let us pride ourselves here, at McGill, on being able to take a defeat with a smile and to be above such tactics as are unfortunately so prevalent among many intercollegiate sports.

JUNIOR "B" WIN FROM M.A.A.A. JUNIOR TEAM

Play Remarkably Clean Throughout.

SCORE: 31—26.

Finley and Snyder Play Good Game For McGill.

On Saturday evening, in Molson Hall, Junior "B" met the M.A.A.A. Juniors for the second and last time of the season. The first game between these two teams was played before Christmas, and was won by the M.A.A.A. However, on Saturday, McGill Juniors turned the tables, and won out by a score of 31 to 26.

The game was fast and interesting, both teams playing their hardest at all times. The Junior "B" are developing better team play, and succeeded in outplaying their opponents. Finley and Snyder played their steady defence game for McGill, and helped to a great extent in keeping down the M.A.A.A.'s score. The game was remarkably clean throughout, the large majority of the fouls being technical.

The first half was exceedingly close, and there was not much to choose between the two teams. In this half the M.A.A.A. scored two remarkably long shots, both being made from over half the length of the floor. This period ended with a score of 16 to 15 for McGill Junior "B."

In the second half the McGill Juniors, by a lot of hard work, managed to keep the lead. By slightly superior team work they kept their opponents on the run, and did not give them many opportunities to shoot. When the final whistle blew, the score was 31 to 26 for McGill.

The line-up was as follows:

Pts. McGill M.A.A.A. Pts.
Levy.....F.....Quirk 10
21 Read.....F.....Clendinning 8
2 MacLean.....C.....O'Brien 6
8 Findley.....G.....Ganley 5
Snyder.....G.....Passingham 2
Conner.....S.....Cummings

Coach Van Wagner and Mr. Richards handled the game in a most satisfactory manner.

FUTURE RAPHAELS ARE APPEALED TO

Lest some of the "Rosettis" and "Turners" should have neglected to read the article regarding the prize of $10 to be given for a drawing for the Yearbook, all you who wield a wicked brush take note! This offer only lasts for a limited period, and time is fleeting; Fortune only knocks once, you know, so trot out your nimble pen and set to work. The last has as good a chance as the first to win the ten berries, but anyone submitting a drawing after February 15 will have no chance at all.

The Commercial Society is very desirous of having, as Abe Potash would say, "A first-class, a number one production" to grace the title page of the Commerce section of the Yearbook. Something simple but grand, both artistic and sublime, and bearing the word "Commerce" thereon, will about fill the bill.

The drawing must be a pen and ink sketch in India ink, on white paper, 8 1/2 x 11. All entries may be submitted to O'Brien or Fraser at the Arts Building, who will see that they are entered properly. The board of judges will be composed partly of Commercial Society representatives and partly of men of talent along the lines of Art.

Incidentally, this competition has no strings or limitations,—the best man wins. Commerce men will be shown no special preference, and a Law student will have as good a chance as a Theolog. The only stipulation is that it must be the work of an undergraduate of McGill.

This offer has nothing whatever to do with the prize offers of the Annual Board. If the drawing is accepted, the ten dollars will be entirely in addition to any premium given for accepted illustrations by that body.

The time is limited, only one week remains to produce your drawing. With enough talent in McGill to paint the whole University, there seems no impediment in the way. Why, in the way of hand carving, there is not a desk in the College but bears the trace of some artist's sculpture! But that is digressing from the point,—a worthy drawing is what is wanted now. If your mind is barren, and ideas are scarce, ask the Art Editor, or a "Daily" reporter, or the "Daily" Cartoonist, or your Professor, or anybody, and no doubt they will help you to turn out a masterpiece. Remember the closing date, February 15th, at midnight.

INTER-FACULTY SKI RUN HELD ON SATURDAY

Len. Reid of Com. '22 Wins in Good Time.

ADVERSE WEATHER.

Team To Compete in Carnival Chosen After Eliminations.

The final Inter-faculty event, the cross-country run, was held on Saturday afternoon under very adverse conditions. Len. Reid of Comm. '22, came first in the very excellent time of 51 minutes and 46 seconds. O. Owens, of Science, came second, covering the course in 52 minutes 42 seconds. Don Gordon, of Medicine, was nine seconds behind Owens, and Alex. Glen nine seconds behind Don Gordon.

The course itself was in very bad condition, as the rain early in the day made going very heavy. As the course was almost six miles, the time under these conditions was extremely good and compares favorably with the time made over the same course last year at the carnival. The material produced this year is of the best, and barring accidents the McGill Ski Club ought to come out victorious in the coming carnivals.

Great credit is due to all those who participated in the cross-country event, and every man who started finished the race, and all in good time. Several men broke their harness during the race, and these men all finished in good time with their skis coming off at almost every step.

The final standing in this Inter-faculty race gives Science the lead with 22 points; Arts and Commerce second with 8 points, then Macdonald 6 and Medicine 1. Every event has been very keenly contested, and this annual event has been a most successful one.

The following men will be sent to Dartmouth on Wednesday to compete in the Carnival: J. B. Rutherford, manager; R. Whittall, E. Sherrard, N. Birks, O. Leslie, D. B. Foss, A. F. Glen, L. G. Reid and O. Owens. These men have been chosen by a series of elimination contests, in the form of an Inter-faculty Meet, and they will do their utmost to bring back the championship to McGill.

The above members of the team and the Ski Club executive are asked to meet in the Union at 5 p.m. on Monday, when final instructions will be given about the trip to Dartmouth.

INFORMAL FOR NEXT FRIDAY

Tickets May Be Had at the Union on Tuesday At 1.15.

The devotees of all-powerful Jazz will have a splendid opportunity of performing the sacred rites demanded by this fascinating deity on Friday evening next, February 11, when the next in the series of Informal Dances run by the Students' Council will take place. These dances have proved extremely popular with the college men this year, and this particular one will certainly not be behind the rest in the pleasures which it has to offer to those who wish to forget all their troubles while moving rhythmically around to the strains of a modern dance orchestra.

Tickets for this event will be placed on sale at the Union on Tuesday, February 8th, at 1.15, thus affording an equal chance to men from all faculties for securing them. The price will be the regular charge of two dollars per couple. Those intending to attend the affair are reminded of the fact that dancing will begin at 8.15 sharp.

The programme follows:

DR. WITHNALL WILL ADDRESS THE DENTALS

At Dental Society Meeting To-Night.

IMPORTANT MEETING.

Many Business Matters For Discussion.

A most important meeting of the Dental Society will be held this evening at 8.30 o'clock in the New Medical Building, when Dr. S. G. Whitnall, Professor of Anatomy of the University, will address the students on "The Romance of Dentistry." His address will be followed by the regular order of business, which includes several important matters, and refreshments (also important).

The lecture by Dr. Whitnall will be heard by a large number of coming young dentists. The Professor's reputation as a speaker is known throughout the University. Dr. Whitnall has spent a great deal of time on this lecture, and it is certain to be interesting to students of all years. Students are asked to be on time, as the meeting will start at 8.30 sharp.

Although the lecture will be the main feature of the meeting, several important items will be reported upon, and, if necessary, discussed. The question of who is to succeed the vice-president, who has resigned, will be decided. A report will be delivered by Messrs. Gray and Buck on the results of their negotiations to have a number of Dental reference books placed in the Medical Library, and a copy of a Dental magazine placed in the Medical Building smoking room. Any enquiries with reference to the coming banquet will be answered, and the progress as far as present arranged will be divulged.

There have been rumors of certain changes in the society's constitution being desired. The best place to bring about such changes is at the regular meeting — so anybody with any amendment might just as well turn up and enjoy the lecture before airing his desires. One change suggested, which is considered a good one, is that class representatives to the society be elected by the vote of the classes concerned in class rooms and not at the last general meeting of the Dental Society for the year, as has usually been the case. Probably this matter will be brought up at the meeting to-night.

Tickets for the banquet will be issued to the class officials some time this week for distribution by sale. The price has been reduced to the absolute minimum. If there should be any deficit, this will be met out of the funds of the society, which at the present time happen to be in a most satisfactory condition. Members on the dinner committee are working overtime to ensure the success of the banquet, which is confidently expected to be the biggest affair ever pulled off by a Dental School in Quebec.

All students who have been interviewed as to their intentions so far, have expressed their intention of going, and this is a source of great satisfaction to the society as a whole.

The date has been arranged so that it will not conflict with any other college activity. It is, Thursday, February 24. As far as can be ascertained, there will be no other college activity on that date. As a result, there will be no excuse for any Dental student not turning up.

GRIFFINTOWN DEFEATED BY SECOND TEAM

Intermediates Won Fresh Laurels on Saturday.

SCORE WAS 3 TO 2.

Opponents Maintained the Lead Until the Second Half.

The McGill Intermediate Hockey team won fresh laurels on Saturday at the Victoria Rink by defeating Griffintown to the tune of 3 to 2. The second team has not lost a game so far, and deserve great credit for their wonderful work. Greater support should be given the team as not a great number of McGill students turn out to see the games, while our opponents always have a big crowd of their supporters.

The game was a splendid exhibition of hockey. It was very fast throughout, the good playing compelling everyone to watch the game closely. The first period play went up and down the ice with McGill taking the offensive several times, but Hough was successful in defending the Griffintown goal. After fifteen minutes of play, however, McElheron broke away, and, skating the whole length of the rink, netted the first point of a game. The remaining five minutes was hard fought without any further scoring, the period ending 1-0 in favor of the Griffintown boys.

The second half of the game was the most decisive. The playing resumed with the Red and White boys on the offensive, and Fowler opened the score. Ross added another point in quick order, and McGill was ahead, 2-1. The opposing team met their hardest after these two goals, and McElheron added another goal, making a tie again. With only a few minutes to play, the game became very tense. McGill, however, was able to assume the lead again, when Macdonald made the final point of the game, making the score 3 to 2. Then the gong sounded there were only nine men playing, five Griffintown and four McGill. The only goal of the game occurred in the last few minutes.

Stenson in goals played a sterling game. The three scorers, Fowler, Macdonald, and McElheron, were the other players. McElheron, the only scorer of the Green and White aggregation, played in stellar fashion.

The line-up was as follows:
McGill
Goal — Hough
Defence — Marshall
Defence — Doyle
Forward — McElheron
Forward — Harrison
Forward — Cannon
Sub — Thompson
Sub — Hutchison
Referee — Geo. Mallinson.

CLAMOR AGAINST VICTOR HUGO

Famous Writer Receives Strange Criticism.

What will the future opinion be concerning that formidable literary lion, Victor Hugo? Creator of critical tempests and beloved of the multitude, his reputation is still the centre of acrid debate. The younger school of writers can see nothing in him. The grand manner is not for them, but only a certain drab record of unimportant events to which they give the high sounding title of "truth in art." There are few dull pages in Victor Hugo, hence he is charged with having a fantastic imagination that no one may take seriously. The suspects, however, that the multitude are nearer right than the exiles of the commonplace.

The storm, of course, began in Victor Hugo's own day. The classicists did not feel kindly toward this samson who overturned the pillars of their temple. It is easy to laugh at romanticism in top boots. But these seven-leagued boots have a way of striding on at a pace which careful-stepping neo-classicism cannot follow. The classicists failed to arrest him.

Among certain of his contemporaries and the succeeding generation he appeared as an exponent of a new era. Francois Coppee had a profound admiration for him, as did Paul Verlaine, Alfred de Musset, the graceful, delicate spinner of concepts, did not like the colossal blows of the lion's paws. The naturalists followed with a revolt of formidable proportions. But the public remained loyal.

INTER-CLASS STANDING IS ANNOUNCED

Ten Hockey Games Played Last Week.

FUTURE GAMES.

No Further Postponements To Be Granted, Except For Bad Ice.

The following games were played last week:—

Monday, 31st—Science '24 defeated Law '21-'22 by 2-0.

Tuesday, 1st—Science '24 won by default from Dent. '23. Arts '23 defeated Law '21-'22 by 6-0.

Wednesday, 2nd — Commerce '23 tied with Arts '23 by 1-1. Medicine vs. Law postponed.

Thursday, 3rd—Arts '23 defeated Med. '23 by 6-0. Commerce vs. Law postponed.

Friday, 4th—Arts '23 defeated Sci. '24 by 5-1. Dentistry vs. Law postponed.

Saturday, 5th—Medicine vs. Commerce '23 vs. Law '21-'22.

The following games will be played this week:—

Monday, 7th, 6.15 to 7.15 p.m.—Commerce '23 vs. Law '21-'22.

Tuesday, 8th, 6.15 to 7.15 p.m.—Medicine '23 vs. Law '21-'22.

Wednesday, 9th, 6.15 to 7.15 p.m.—Medicine '23 vs. Commerce '23.

Thursday, 10th, 6.15 to 7.15 p.m.—Dentals '23 vs. Law '21-'22.

No further postponements will be granted under any circumstances owing to lateness of season, unless bad ice is encountered.

Practice Hours.

The following hours will be available for all-star practice from 6.15 to 6.45 p.m. on the Campus Rink:—

Monday—Science.

Tuesday—Commerce.

Wednesday—No practice.

Thursday—Medicine.

Friday—Dentals. (6.15 to 7.15) — Law.

Saturday (12 to 1)—Arts.

Hours on the Women's Rink will stand as usual owing to the courtesy of Miss E. M. Cartwright, Physical Director for Women, who has kindly extended the period for which these hours were available.

Science '23 on Friday is cancelled and will be shared with Science '21 on Monday.

Medicine '26 is allotted from 6.15 to 7.15 on Friday.

To-morrow (Tuesday 8th), the practice on the Women's Rink will be cancelled for the day only to make room for a match between the R.V.C. and St. Lambert's.

SNOWSHOERS WILL STAGE TRAMP WED.

Prospects Are Bright For an Even Greater Success Than Last.

The announcement that the second Snowshoe Tramp of the season will take place on Wednesday, the ninth, will be greeted with loud acclaim by the numerous enthusiasts of this sport.

Arrangements have been made to reserve the Union for this date, and tickets will be on sale in the various faculty buildings and in the Union to-day. It is hoped that the supporters of the club will do their utmost to make this occasion an outstanding success. Fuller particulars will appear in to-morrow's issue of the "Daily."

Vigny wrote: "Victor Hugo has accomplished in 'Marion Delorme' an excellent example of style. The public does not recognize that his style is Victor Hugo's unique talent. No one ever had more form and less depth; there is not a single idea of his own, not an observation on life, or a vision of his times in the whole work. But he patterns his work with admirable art. Many men have made a success by this alone. He, too, will thus achieve success."

In this passage Alfred de Vigny has summed up all that Victor Hugo's critical detractors have been saying about him ever since. Have these critics paused to think what loss French literature would have suffered had it had no Balzac and no Victor Hugo? Where else could it turn for vastness of imagination? There are enough correct writers in the long roll of French authors. The public once are right in keeping Victor Hugo on his throne.

STUDENT AIDS DYING VICTIM OF OUTRAGE

Frank W. Shaver of Med. '23 on Scene of Murder.

GAVE FIRST AID.

Carried Victim Into House—Applied Medical Knowledge.

The repulsive murder of Adelina Malherbe has greatly stirred the two cities of Montreal and Westmount. The crime taking place as it did on one of the quiet residential streets of the smaller city has had a great effect on those living in the vicinity.

The "Daily" has received an exhaustive report of the actual happening from one, who not only saw the victim before her death but who applied measures of relief immediately after the occurrence. The story as related by Frank W. Shaver, of Medicine '23, and formerly of Arts '19, is one which is sordid in the extreme.

The McGill student had been visiting friends on Prospect Avenue, when about a quarter to eleven a passer-by applied at the door for aid for a pedestrian who was lying injured on the sidewalk. Responding at once, Shaver with three others carried the unfortunate woman into the home of W. A. Waller, at number forty three Prospect Ave.

The victim was seen to be in a precarious condition and the medical student at once proceeded to make the best use of his training. Relief was of little use, however, for the woman soon stopped breathing and became cyanosed. At this stage Dr. Harvey appeared and finding that the heart was still beating, together with Shaver, applied artificial respiration till the ambulance arrived. The ambulance doctor attempted to revive the patient by injecting strychnine but soon after this the heart action ceased.

No marks of identification were found on the victim who was soon afterwards removed to the morgue. Shaver, who is of a very temperamental nature, showed signs of intense grief and nearly broke down when interviewed by our reporter. He stated that he will find it hard to wipe all thought of the dire tragedy from his mind, and hopes that punishment befitting the crime will be meted out to the guilty man.

College Clippings

University of Kansas.

Professor Browne, of the University of Kansas, formerly a member of the United States Secret Service, who served in France, related to the students of the university, several of the adventures he experienced while working for the government. One of the most interesting of these was the manner in which he followed up and convicted a notorious woman agent of the Germans, who had been working insidiously among army officers in Paris.

University of Columbia.

Miss Blanche A. Spellman, a lady student in the University of Columbia, evolved an excellent device to escape mid-term examinations. She fled to Montreal, until the exams were over, and then later returned to New York, where she had registered in an entirely different course. When interviewed, Miss Spellman is said to have stated in justification of her act that she did so because she was anxious to prepare immediately for her chosen career instead of waiting three and a half years until she had completed her work at Columbia.

University of Dalhousie.

That a keen interest in hockey is being taken by the students of the Dalhousie University, is shown by the fact that over three thousand students witnessed a match between the Dalhousie University and the Wanderers, in which the former won by the score of six to three.

Colgate University.

Larry Bankhart, the former Colgate football coach, is at present trying to improve the present system of playing off tie games by playing an extra period as in basketball. The suggestion is considered as being fair and stands a good chance of being adopted. Bankhart states that if the suggestion is carried out, the half backs will attempt to score the winning point by kicking.

Stanford University.

According to a dispatch from Stanford University, Alva W. Richards, the well-known Olympic champion, has registered as a student of the University. Richards, who won many of the events in the Olympic in 1912, and who broke the world's jumping record, is, unfortunately, ineligible for intercollegiate meets.

INTERESTING ADDRESS BY DR. A. W. SHAW

Before Members of Physical Society.

RESEARCH WORK.

"Some Problems in Heating and Ventilation" Subject of Lecture Last Friday.

Last Friday afternoon Dr. A. N. Shaw lectured before the Physical Society on "Some Problems in Heating and Ventilation," in which he dealt not with the mechanical engineering side of the subject but with the relation of the state of the atmosphere to the comfort and well being of the persons which it surrounds.

At the present time research in ventilation is concerned with the influence of the atmospheric environment on the general well being of animals; on the influence of the atmosphere on the gain or loss of heat by building, instruments, machines, and so on; and also with the influence of the atmosphere on the variation of moisture constant of such materials as textiles. Besides this, there is a large amount of empirical knowledge which is being slowly co-ordinated.

Dealing chiefly with the first topics, there are to be considered as the principal factors in the comfort of men and animals, the temperature and the degree and character of the temperature fluctuations; the velocity of movement of the air, and the character and fluctuation of its movements. It is usually considered that the temperature and absolute humidity are the principal factors, but greater importance attaches to the others, as a room in which the temperature and humidity remain constant or even rise, may be changed from an uncomfortable to a comfortable condition by altering the character of the air currents and of the temperature fluctuations. Of importance also is the amount and distribution of incident radiation.

The ordinary wet and dry bulb hygrometer is of small value in giving indications of the degree of comfort experienced by an individual, but an instrument was devised by Hill for measuring the rate of loss of heat, in air, which can be shown to have a relation to the rate at which heat is lost by an individual and therefore to have some relation to his "comfort." It consists of a large bulb alcohol thermometer whose stem is graduated over the range 95 to 100 deg. F. The reading is taken by noting the time required in free air for the instrument to cool from 100 to 95 deg. The lecturer explained by series of tabulated observations how well its indications agree with the opinions of individuals as to the "stiffness" or "freshness" of the atmospheric conditions.

Dr. Shaw pointed out also that at the present time further work could be done in application and improvement of the Kata-thermometer, in comparison of Hygrometry methods, in the rapid determination of absolute humidity, and Electrical Hygrometry, and finally in the problems of the transmission of heat across bounding surfaces.

CHESS CLUB PLAYS VERDUN TO-NIGHT

Game to Decide the Championship of City League.

To-night at 8 o'clock the McGill Chess Team will meet the strong aggregation from the Verdun Chess Club. McGill has been very successful this year, as they have not lost a match, and they are at the top of the league by a wide margin. If they win to-night, McGill will have won the City Championship. All students interested in Chess are invited to see the match, which will take place at the Union. They can be assured of an instructive and interesting contest.

The Chess Tournament will be started soon. The list of entries will be closed on Wednesday night, and all those who intend entering are advised to do so as soon as possible. A list has been posted specially for that purpose on the Union notice board. All students who play Chess at all should make it their business to enter, as they will find it a means of improving their playing to a great extent. You don't have to be an expert to enter, moreover, for the players will be divided into three classes, according to their abilities, and handicaps will be given accordingly.

surely. The Toronto defence especially gave a wonderful exhibition. Hard body checks were given and taken, and finally Flanagan dropped his stick and went after Westman. The fight was soon stopped, and the offenders punished. Langtry, who took a large part in the general mix-up, was relegated to the penalty box together with his offending teammate, who first fouled Flanagan. Varsity, with only four men on the ice, and Joe Olsen in the nets without goalies' equipment, held off successfully the onslaught of the McGill forwards.

With Langtry's return to the ice, Varsity went on the offensive again, and Carson soon notched another one in a skillful piece of stick-handling. Ramsay followed a minute after with a shot that might easily have been blocked. McGill's pep seemed gone, and with the score at 6-0, the Red and White showed little signs of life.

Third Period.

The McGill team came to the ice for the final period with new hope. Three minutes after the face-off Flanagan scored McGill's first goal on a combination of speed and skill. The crowds went wild when Behan and Flanagan went down together and "Fin" passed Langtry again with a bullet-like shot. The McGill rosters called for another goal, and two minutes later their wishes were granted when Cully, Behan and Flanagan engineered the prettiest play of the evening, which resulted in Flanagan again scoring.

For a time it looked as if the Toronto team would go to pieces, but the Trojan efforts of the McGill players and the hoarse exhortations of the excited crowds failed to overcome the three-goal lead, and Carson made McGill's chances look slim when he scored his third goal of the evening from a pass in front of the net.

McGill lost all hope when Sullivan scored again forty seconds later. The Red and White fought hard the rest of the period, but Wright added another to Varsity's big score, and the McGill attempts to score from centre ice were futile. The gong rang with the score 9-3.

England's Warm Wave.

The spell of mild weather—already the longest on record at this time of year—is likely to continue for several days, says the Meteorological Office.

It was on Christmas Eve that the "heat wave" arrived, and on ten successive days—December 24 to January 3—the mercury rose to 54 deg., and in two of those days reached 55.

These high readings were well beaten yesterday, Torquay, Colwyn Bay and Rhyl each registered a maximum temperature of 58 while London, Leamington, Llandudno and Yarmouth recorded 57.

Not only was yesterday the hottest January day registered since official records were first taken in 1841, but it was five degrees warmer than July 2 of last year, and only one degree cooler than the last day in August.—London Chronicle, Jan. 10.

VARSIITY SWAMPS MCGILL IN BASKETBALL FIXTURE

Game at Highlanders' Armory Saturday Results in Loss For Red and White — Latter Did Not Seem at Top of Their Form — Score Was 35-18 — Varsity Played Well — McGill Combination Was Repeatedly Broken Up by Varsity Quintette.

The Toronto Intercollegiate Basketball Team defeated McGill by the score of 35 to 18 on Saturday afternoon in the Highlanders' Armory. For the greater part of the first period McGill held Varsity well, and at one time tied the score, but the Blue and White quickly assumed the lead, and in the second period they played a wonderful game of basketball and smothered all McGill's attempts to assume the offensive. The score about indicates the relative merits of the two teams as they appeared in action on Saturday afternoon, but no one could say that the Red and White were playing anywhere near the top of their form. When McGill defeated M.A.A.A. six days ago they played basketball that was almost perfect. Their passing was swift and sure; their shooting was accurate — and they worked together with a precision and a confidence that made them invincible. If they had played that brand of basketball on Saturday they would at least have held Varsity to a close score, but at no time during the game, save for a few minutes in the first period, were they able to get away and take the offensive. When the Red and White did start some combination time and again the Varsity men would jump right in and intercept their passes, thus breaking up the McGill attack effectively. The McGill forwards could not find the basket consistently. Often they rained shots in the Varsity basket, but the ball would not go through for the count, while all the time the Blue and White were shooting baskets from all imaginable angles.

The first period provided the most excitement and the most thrills. Both teams played careful basketball and took no chances on, leaving the opposing forwards uncovered. Toronto took the lead and held it for a while, then the McGill team suddenly leaped into their stride, and for a few minutes the pace was terrific. The Red and White raced up and down the floor with a speed that kept Varsity guessing; they found the basket three times in succession, and when the fever of excitement had died down the score was a tie—11 to 11. Then McGill hit a slump; Varsity found their feet again and their sure checking and accurate shooting baffled the McGill squad. In the second period the Varsity men were masters of the situation, and in spite of all McGill's attempts to stage a rally and win the victory they scored again and again. As the game progressed and the tide of fortune swelled higher and higher for the Torontonians they took greater chances and, as is generally the way in such cases, they pulled them off successfully. They tried spectacular shots that dropped right through the baskets with a little triumphant swish that was like adding insult to injury, and they displayed an ability to catch the ball on the fly that was disconcerting to the McGill team.

TRAINED FORESTERS CONTROL FORESTS

Ontario Places Administration of Crown Lands Under Practical Men.

The opportunity for the beginning of a new era in the forestry situation in Ontario was created by the recent announcement of the Provincial Government that henceforth the timber administration on Crown lands will be under the Provincial Forestry Branch, instead of comprising a separate organization, in which no foresters were employed. This is the most important development which has yet taken place in the forestry situation in Ontario.

By this action, assuming that its logical consequences will follow, Ontario aligns herself with the provinces of Quebec, British Columbia and New Brunswick, which had already recognized the necessity for taking thought for the future by making foresters responsible for the technical administration of Crown timber lands. A partial example had been set by the Dominion Government at a still earlier date, when the Dominion Forestry Branch was placed in charge of the timber administration on Dominion forest reserves in the west, exclusive of licensed lands or timber limits.

Novia Scotia has practically no Crown timber lands, her forests having passed into private ownership many years ago. The need for a provincial forest service there is based upon the opportunity for the development of better forestry practice on these privately-owned timber lands, and upon the urgent need for

Bell, the Toronto centre man, played a splendid game, and netted penalty baskets with great accuracy. Urquhart did some very accurate shooting, especially in the final period and Graham and Logan played a strong defensive game.

For McGill, Lou Kern was about the only man who played his game. He was right on the job all the time and it was he who started the rally in the first period which resulted in McGill tying the score for a short time. The large armory of the Highlanders was filled to capacity by the spectators, and both teams received rousing receptions when they appeared on the floor. McGill is greatly indebted to the Highlanders for the use of their floor, for it affords accommodation that would be hard to find elsewhere in the city.

The game started with both teams playing carefully and checking hard. A number of shots were tried by both sides and finally Bell followed in on a long shot and batted the ball into the basket for the first score. Little tried two penalty shots in quick succession and made the second one good. Varsity was a little speedier and had the edge on the play but they made a number of fouls. Little scored on a penalty and Bell counted one for Varsity. Laishley got a nice basket. Ray and Little tried shots but could not drop the ball through. Little and Bell each tallied one point on penalty throws. Varsity checked well and McGill had hard luck in the shooting. Lou Kern dribbled the ball and passed to Little. Little returned the pass and Kern scored a nice one. Little followed with another basket and a moment later Cece Hay evened the score.

Both teams travelled at a terrific speed and the excitement was at fever heat. Graham tried a long side shot that went through and sent Varsity ahead. McGill spurt subsided. Varsity played better combination and intercepted many McGill passes. Period ended: Varsity 17, McGill 12.

In the second period Urquhart quickly scored and Little duplicated the stunt a moment later. Two Toronto forwards were left uncovered beneath the McGill basket, but were unable to score. McGill passed inaccurately, and for the rest of the period Toronto swept them off their feet. McLean and Urquhart scored easily, and Little scored for McGill. Toronto baffled McGill by their swift combination. Laishley scored the last goal of the game on a rebound, thus making the final score: Varsity 35, McGill 18.

The teams lined up as follows:—

greatly intensified system of forest protection, to cover all the forested area of the province.

Prince Edward Island is not a forest province, practically the whole of her land area being under cultivation.

Ontario is then the last of the forest provinces to recognize the necessary and logical connection between forestry and foresters. The recent action should, and no doubt will, mark the beginning of an era in which the fullest practicable consideration will be given to so regulating the methods of cutting on Crown lands as to leave them in a condition to produce another crop of valuable timber species. It has been demonstrated that logging operations in which cutting is not regulated with an eye to future productivity are generally destructive to the quality and quantity of the future growth. Each area requires to be carefully studied in advance of cutting, that the method of treatment to be prescribed may be adaptive to local conditions and at the same time be practicable from the operator's viewpoint, to say nothing of being reasonable from the viewpoint of additional cost involved.

Ontario is to be congratulated upon the progressive action taken in thus far recognizing the need for a technical administration of Crown timber lands. The Provincial Forestry Branch has a great responsibility and a great opportunity for public service in the prospective addition to its previous work of forest protection, of the inauguration of forestry practice upon the great areas of Crown lands which have now come under its jurisdiction. Progress will necessarily be slow; economic conditions must be fully recognized; and it will take time to develop the kind of organization required for so large a task. Public sentiment is now doubtably fully ripe for the development of this situation along the most modern lines. It must, however, make itself actively felt, in support of a really progressive forest policy.

SNOWSHOERS DO WELL IN CAN. CHAMPS.

Hammy Hamilton Canadian Champion Half Miler.

FIVE MCGILL MEN.

Clean Up Fourteen Points, Making Third Place.

The National A.A.A. grounds on Saturday afternoon were the scene of the annual Snowshoe Championships of Canada. As previously intimated in the "Daily," the McGill Club made their primary appearance in active competition in Montreal, and a team carried off third honors in aggregate number of points. The M.A.A.A. team carried away the largest number of aggregate points, thus winning the Dominion Championship Cup for the year. N.A.A.A. carried off second honors.

In all, six places were secured by different members of the team—one first, two seconds and three thirds—a total of 14 points in all. Following is a more detailed account of the showing of the team, which was made up of the following: R. L. Hamilton, E. C. Creelman, J. C. Simpson, D. M. Johnson, J. D. King, and Davies. The last named, Davis, however, was unable to compete owing to injuries incurred during the trials Thursday last. This was a considerable handicap, as undoubtedly Davis would have added to the total points.

Both Senior and Junior events were carried off consecutively during the meet.

Hamilton was responsible for six of the points, carrying off the Senior Dominion Championship in the half-mile, as well as getting third place in the Senior 440 yards. The former race was well contested, and Hammy won in the prettiest race of the afternoon, defeating Rolands Whiting on the M.A.A.A., Coulette of the National and other starters.

Creelman also won six points by obtaining two second places in two events, the Senior one mile and the Junior half-mile, both of which were very closely contested, and Creelman's showing was very creditable. He exhibits the style of an old-timer. In the Senior mile, Simpson obtained a good third place, and he also obtained third place in the Junior one-quarter mile.

Johnson and King, though they did not obtain places, both made very respectable showings. Johnson particularly showed up very well in view of his inexperience, and undoubtedly will be the right man in the right place in the next meet. In the 220 yards he was only displaced by an unfortunate accident. In the hundred yards he also was unfortunate in having trouble with his shoes. King showed excellent sportsmanship, turning out without having had any training as yet, and in the coming meets we predict a return to old-time form.

In explanation, it might be stated that Senior events are only distinct from Junior by the fact that the competitors who have all won events in previous championships are only eligible for these races.

The times of the various races were only fair, owing to the condition of the track.

Medals were distributed in order of merit—gold, silver and bronze, respectively.

The treatment accorded to the members of the team and their executive was most courteous. The affair was characterized by a true sportsmanlike spirit all the way through, and the McGill and M.A.A.A. men are loud in their expressions of appreciation of the kindness of the officials in charge of the meet.

In view of the fact that this was the club's premier effort to put the old French-Canadian sport on a sound athletic basis at the college, the executive and coach, Mr. Gentleman, are highly pleased with the showing of the team. Too much credit cannot be given to those who have been coaching the team, of whom Mr. Gentleman has done no small part.

Hamilton and Creelman have been chosen to represent the club at the Dartmouth Carnival this week, and that this choice was wise was well demonstrated on Saturday.

Preparations are now being made by M.A.A.A. to hold an open Snowshoe Meet in the near future. It is possible that this meet will be held on the McGill Campus. Every effort and assistance will be afforded the M.A.A.A. by the McGill Snowshoe Club.

JUNIOR TEAM WHITEWASH WESTMOUNT

Gain Their First Victory of Series.

SCORE: 3-0.

McGill Protest Against the Catholic High To Be Considered.

Saturday afternoon McGill Juniors annexed their first win of the season, beating Westmount to the tune of 3-0 in a scheduled fixture of the Junior Amateur Hockey Association. The ice was rather slow, and the play at times, by both teams, a little ragged, but the score is a just estimate of the ability and standard of hockey set by the respective sextettes.

Lynch centred off for McGill against Sullivan of Westmount, and obtained the puck for the Red and White, and after only one minute of play sagged the net behind the latter's goal custodian, for the first tally of the match, placing the University men in the lead. During the next ten minutes the puck was carried from end to end of the Arena, but with Shag's men in possession for the greater portion of the play. During this time, Moran, the McGill goaler, stopped many shots, the Westmounters having the disc accurately tagged for their opponents' goal, but their shots lacking power and speed. Substitutes were used on both sides, and Price, who replaced McGibbon, put McGill another point to the good five minutes before half time was called.

The second period opened at a much slower clip, the skating of the Westmount forwards being decidedly off color. There was a mix-up in front of the McGill goal, when Horsfall, of Westmount, fell on the netting, followed by Moran, and was immediately swallowed up under seven or eight players of both teams, desirous of having a hand in the proceedings. About now the whistle was being heard very frequently for offside. Price broke through the Westmount defence but with only Kenwood to pass failed to score. However, McGibbon made the last count of the match for McGill, the score sheet at the end of the forty minutes showing 3-0 for the Red and White.

For McGill, Lynch, Price and Moran played a steady game, while Ware and Horsfall showed up to advantage for Westmount. The line-up follows:

McGill	Westmount

A protest has been lodged by McGill against a tie game played with Catholic High on February second last. The protest alleges that certain men played by the Catholic High are over age—if this claim is allowed at the meeting of the executive of the league to-morrow night, it will materially affect the standing of the clubs.

The other two games resulted: Catholic High, 3; Loyola, 2. Victoria, 4; M.A.A.A., 3.

MCGILL MAY PLAY CORNELL

If Cornell Agree Will Travel to Utica Friday.

An announcement is made that the McGill Intermediate Hockey team has signified their willingness to play Cornell on their own ice next Friday. Should Cornell accept this proposal the intermediate team will travel there to do battle in an exhibition game.

The intermediate team is in the pink of condition and the game promises to be a hard fought one, since the Cornell players form one of the best teams on the American ice this year.

Although the McGill intermediates are to play a game in the City League on Saturday night yet their standing in the finals is already assured. Consequently they intend, if their proposal is satisfactory, to

WHERE THE FILM-PLAY STANDS

Now that Mr. G. K. Chesterton is in America, the scene of the "movie" most sensational developments, one would like to hear what he thinks of them. Would he throw down the gauntlet for or against the cinema? And would he incidentally discover for the public altogether unsuspecting meanings and paradoxes in the terms in familiar use to describe the all-absorbing art of the film? There is, of course, a world of challenge in that word "art." One may be impressed by the wonderful potentialities of the film-play, and yet, like Mr. Thomas Burke, a writer for the screen, turn up a scornful nose at it as art, declaring it to be "still in the street of the penny gaff." Or again, like Somerset Maugham, dramatist, novelist, and essayist, who promises something like his "best ever" when his first screen work appears, one may be genuinely convinced of the coming eminence, if not pre-eminence, of motion pictures as a medium of artistic expression.

What is certain is that the photograph has faced and mastered many of the discouraging technical problems which assailed its beginnings. To-day the scenario writer has far surpassed even the novelist in scope and opened up to the playwright a latitude of situation which enables him to escape the hampering constraint of the three "walls" of the stage. There is, indeed, hardly a situation which the "movie" man cannot bring into being, hardly a country or scene which he cannot place in his settings. The scenario, it cannot be denied, is more comprehensive than that of the spoken play, and the artist who would spread out beyond the comparatively narrow confines of the stage or the printed page, may find that he has at last a medium to hand with which he can reach the entire world.

On the whole, however, the film-play gives evidence that it has not yet found its rightful place in the theatrical scheme of things. If it has made unparalleled progress, it still, perhaps, places too much emphasis on detail and puts the imagination largely to sleep. It has an unsatisfying realism about it. It is plain, too, that such a play does not properly belong to pantomime. If it did, its producers would be content to dispense with explanatory text, and there would be screen-plays with the mutely eloquent appeal of "L'Enfant Prodigieux" or "The Russian Ballet." Yet, although it indulges in dumb show to a large extent, the play must constantly help out its defects by a plentiful supply of explanatory subtitle. Thus it does really expose itself to the oft-heard charge of pretending to be what it is not. The conviction seems unavoidable that photography is of too unaccommodating a character to give full scope to mimicry. The weakest part of present-day photo-plays lies undoubtedly in their monopoly of gesture and facial expression. Thought and emotion seem always to be conveyed through the medium of a wholly inadequate set of tiresome rules that have the inanity of mere stage tricks.

It is well to recognize, however, at the outset that the limitations of the film-play are the natural concomitants of young arts. Every art is begun by adapting itself to the people, so that at first all arts have been vulgar. The cinema, broadly speaking, is still in the vulgar stage, though in process of time it may actually prove highly intriguing to writers of imagination and draw to it the master craftsmen of the pen. At the present time it affords no chance for the cleverness and wit, the beauty and tenderness which lie within the spoken word. When a prominent champion of the film claims that it has successfully combined all other arts within its compass, he forgets that there is a whole field of expression quite aside from that of the photograph. If the story's the thing, the human voice must still claim precedence. The average audience craves something more than fine landscapes, overawing sets, wonderful photographic effects, astounding "close-ups," and a rapid succession of thrilling scenes, however well done. The printed words that appear on the screen of the picture-play fall miserably to fill the lack. They are neither witty nor clever—and who wants to read when he comes to look?

To-day the cinema cannot hope to compete with "real drama" or to boast even a satisfying sense of proportion. Hope lies wholly in its to-morrow—Christian Science Monitor.

LONG LIVED TENORS.

This week M. Jean de Bessze has celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday by singing to a gathering of friends in the South of France.

Mr. Edward Lloyd will reach next March his seventy-sixth birthday, and can still delight those who hear him sing in his seaside home. One recalls Stms Reeves singing at 80 years of age. Judged by these instances, tenors are a long-lived race.

PROGRESS IN PREVENTION OF DISEASES

Advance in Eradication of Tuberculosis.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis Reports Decrease in Death Rate.

Among the publications that have just reached us is the Twentieth Annual Report of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. A casual glance at the report reveals much food for thought, and we are glad to notice that progress is being made against tuberculosis in our midst. Education and sound propaganda are bound to have a goodly influence upon the daily habits of the community.

Particularly instructive is the address of the president, Hon. Dr. Schaffner, which reviews the stages of tuberculosis from its first description by Hippocrates, long before the Christian era, to the present. For many centuries, he points out, the disease was believed to be hereditary and incurable, but to-day scientific research has established that it is not only preventable but curable if taken in its early stages.

Hon. Dr. Schaffner lays great stress on the importance of education on the subject, alluding to the common school teacher as one of the most powerful agencies in this regard, and he urges the earnest co-operation of all classes as the most effective means of eradicating the disease.

Dr. George G. Porter, secretary, reviews the work of the year and tells of a decrease in the death rate from tuberculosis in Canada of thirty per cent. in the last twenty years, due chiefly to lessened infection, better living conditions and earlier treatment. There are also interesting addresses by other prominent authorities on tuberculosis, besides reports from all the Sanatoria and local societies in Canada.

SUNDAY AT THE HALL

Afternoon Tea For Students By Ladies.

Once again some forty students enjoyed a pleasant Sunday afternoon, when Mrs. Harkness, Mrs. Murray and Miss McNeil were the joint hostesses at the tea given at the Hall yesterday. The reading room was specially decorated for the occasion by the kind ladies in charge of the function.

Much appreciation and gratitude was manifested by those present for the several selections given by Mrs. J. Brown, accompanied by Miss Armstrong on the Piano.
